RF MERGE WITH 8THLR, A WAR, JROD, AND NUMBERS INCREASE TO RECORD LEVELS

THE MERGE:

Recently, Redrix of The Royal Fusiliers informed our glorious leader Muszy that his regiment had fallen under hard times. The regiment had not been doing so well as it had been inactive from The Best Around's abuse; this came at a time where more and more regiments were flirting with the idea of merging with the 8thLR. Although with Redrix's case, it was a really hard decision, it can be heartbreaking for someone who has spent so long gathering and training a group of 15 people or even just 3 or 5 people it can make someone really disheartened. Earlier in our interview with Redrix, he said that he was settling in well despite all the changes. It is apparent that some people outside of the 8thLR had it out for Redrix with some even going as far as complaining to our leaders. The people in question seem to be throwing around loose accusations based on absolutely no evidence whatsoever.

This is what Redrix had to say on the matter: "I do not admit to the accusations against me".

When asked about him merging with 8thLR he said: "we merged because I wanted a better experience for my members."

A War Between the 23rd and TRRB:

There's a war between the 23rd and the TRRB

On the 5th of September 2020 a message spread on all of the major Holdfast discords; the "23rd Royal Welsh Fusiliers have declared war on The Royal Redcoat Brigade." According to the 23rd, the reason for their declaration was the TRRB's repeated acts of unfriendly behavior of the leaders towards their regiment. The list of accusations was long and contains: regimental sniping, racist behavior in VOIP, bullying and harassment. As a consequence the 23rd high command (Colonel SheroChef and Lieutenant Father Merrin) have declared a state of war under which members of their regiment shall target all members of the TRRB in any match.

The reaction of the TRRB was swift and provocative: "You can suck our dick." In their opinion, the declaration of war "wasn't very kek". Furthermore, they mentioned that they didn't really care about the 23rd and provoked the regiment's head by asking him "How long til your next reg shift?" In addition, the QRR's Elf might enter the war as he said "woof".

Will all of this end in a devastating catastrophe and a full blown war within the Holdfast community? No, of course not! I mean did the 23rd leadership seriously think anything will change through a declaration of war? What happened though was a blessing for the Holdfast community as it has created some epic memes which have brought us together.

THE ROD RETURNS:

We were originally going to cover the tragic circumstance that we found ourselves in after Holdfast's favorite boomer JROD left the community entirely. A few weeks ago, an echo rung throughout JROD's PubHub™ when its controversial head hereby announced his resignation from the entire Holdfast Community.

The former regimental head has spent more than 2300 hours devoted to "making this game welcoming and cooperative". Unfortunately, his efforts did not come to fruition as many members of our beloved community have undermined the ambitious Rodman.

However, after the dark days of his resignation, Holdfast is experiencing a revitalization like never before. Player records are broken repeatedly, streamers, Womble videos, a new update, and many other reforms have sparked new life into this game. After seeing that, JROD made the decision to return, as these fresh new faces will give him a forgiving second chance.

His enemies may not like it, but the Rod has returned in full force with a new group in the Regimental Registry and a new fire rap parody "Holdfast God" in which he roasts other communities such as the TKF and the 1st Battalion.

Welcome to Our New Members:

As Oberst, I wish to make a short announcement thanking all of our new members that we have seen in the past weeks. This is honestly never something we would have even expected, while other regiments are experiencing growth as well, we're finally at a place where we are chaotic but happy. We've peaked at 40 attendance with 30+ average which is something we could have never really imagined. You guys are the next generation for this regiment and we hope to see you stick around!

"Shaggy's Own" To coincide with the release of our new weekly Civil War themed line battle, myself and my friend Oliford have come together to create a hub of sorts to play/hang for all things War of Rights - a public Union themed group (not another regiment) was made for all of us who enjoy playing the game together in pubs and fight for the well being of our Union corn, there's also roles to apply for you that you like to play as (Private/NCO/CO/Arty). Thought it'd be a nice addition to the games we can play together.
